

GTT Center Perth

working name — SOLENA

Perth's first dedicated space for the pregnancy glucose tolerance test — where a mandatory two-hour clinical wait becomes a morning of massage, beauty and care, and the same rooms keep working all afternoon as a stand-alone wellness salon.

WHY THIS EXISTS

A test every pregnant woman has to take.

Every pregnant woman in Australia is required to take a gestational glucose tolerance test, usually between 24 and 28 weeks. It isn't optional, and it isn't a small appointment: a fasting blood draw, a glucose drink, then two more blood draws over the following two hours.

For almost everyone, that two-hour wait happens in an ordinary pathology clinic — fluorescent lighting, plastic chairs, no phone signal to speak of, nothing designed for the person sitting through it. Anthony has been through it. It's the reason this venture exists.

Because the test is mandatory and recurring, this isn't a business that has to invent demand. Perth's metro area sees an estimated 515 births a week, which means a steady, predictable stream of women who must attend, for medical reasons, regardless of the economy or how much is spent on marketing.

THE OLD WAY

Two hours in a waiting room, designed for nothing but waiting.

THE GTT CENTER PERTH WAY

Two hours of massage, beauty and care, with the blood draws built quietly into the schedule.

WHAT IT ACTUALLY IS

One venue, two businesses, running from the same rooms.

Mornings belong to the GTT test. Afternoons belong to everyone else.

MORNINGS — THE GTT EXPERIENCE

A pregnant client arrives for her test, is greeted by name, and spends her two required waiting hours receiving massage and beauty treatments from GTT Center Perth's own employed staff, in between the three blood draws the test requires.

AFTERNOONS — THE WELLNESS SALON

From early afternoon, the same rooms, staff and brand become a stand-alone premium massage, beauty, nail and hair salon open to anyone — no test, no referral, just a booking.

WHAT GTT CENTER PERTH IS NOT

GTT Center Perth does not draw blood without a qualified phlebotomist, does not process or interpret the test, and does not employ a pathologist. The clinical sample is collected by employed, qualified staff and handed to an external, independently accredited pathology partner, who processes it and reports results to the referring doctor — exactly as happens today, just without the plastic chairs. GTT Center Perth is a wellness venue with a clinical collection service inside it, not a pathology company.

FROM BOOKING TO DEPARTURE

The customer journey.

THE COMMERCIAL LOGIC

The same premium room, earning twice in one day.

A specialised clinical service in the morning, when demand for it exists; a broader wellness business in the afternoon, when it doesn't. One fit-out, one lease, one brand — two revenue periods.

No handover meeting

Different people, different shifts — the switch from morning to afternoon is a rostering fact, not a ceremony. A morning staff member may work into the afternoon on a given day if bookings justify it, but that's a day-to-day choice, not the structural model.

No spare capacity in the morning

At the committed 18-client volume, every morning treatment slot already belongs to a GTT client's schedule. The morning does not also sell walk-in wellness appointments — that revenue lives entirely in the afternoon.

INSIDE ONE CLIENT'S MORNING

What actually happens during the two-hour test.

The clinical process itself — three blood draws exactly one hour apart — can't be shortened; it's what the test requires. What changes is everything around it.

CAPACITY, VERIFIED

18 clients a day run as 9 synchronised pairs across 2 collection chairs, on a 25-minute cadence from a 7:00am start. This has been checked against a hard-constraint solver across all 153 pairwise combinations, with zero chair or phlebotomist clashes — and it's the same timetable that has been shared with WDP for their own review.

TWO HONEST LIMITS

- The last first-draw of the day is 10:20am, inside WDP's own guidance of not normally starting a test after 10:30am.
- 18 clients/day is the physical ceiling of this schedule at the current staffing level, not a promise every day will be full.

WHAT THE SPACE NEEDS TO CONTAIN

The physical program — not a site.

No property has been chosen yet, so this isn't a floor plan. It's the set of zones the final venue has to accommodate, and how a client moves through them.

Confirmed as a physical requirement in every case; a small number of items — nail-station ventilation, toilet accessibility compliance, and the exact linen/biohazard split — still need professional sign-off once a site exists.

HOW IT SHOULD FEEL

Warm, earthy, unmistakably premium.

Not clinical. Not cold. Somewhere every expecting mother wants to go — and wants to come back to once the test is behind her.

TYPOGRAPHY

DISPLAY — FRAUNCES

Solena

BODY — DM SANS

A quiet, considered wordmark. No symbol, no icon — the name carries the brand.

FINAL

conditional leader

Ahead of ELOWEN in a weighted comparison, but not yet legally cleared — trademark search is deliberately deferred to a later funding milestone. Treat as "leaning SOLENA," not decided.

WHAT'S SOLD, AND FOR HOW MUCH

Two menus, one for each half of the day.

Morning — GTT packages

PACKAGE	WHAT'S INCLUDED	PRICE
Package 1	Two 30-minute services	A$250
Package 2	Flexible — 2×45, or 45+30, or 2×30	A$300

Lounge access, tea and the welcome card are bundled free into both. The financial model deliberately uses Package 1's lower price throughout, as a conservative safety assumption rather than a blended average. MODELED

A-la-carte inside the morning window (all ≤45 min): pregnancy massage A$75–120, pregnancy-safe facials A$95–130, nails A$55–90, brows & lashes A$30–95, hair A$60–85.

Afternoon — wellness salon

OFFER	COMPOSITION	PRICE
PM Refresh	Massage 45 + mini facial 30	A$185
PM Restore	Gel manicure 45 + blow-dry 30	A$135
A-la-carte	Full afternoon menu, incl. longer services not offered in the morning	avg. A$84

Package prices are benchmarked against comparable Perth bundles but not yet signed off by Anthony.

PLACEHOLDER A 10% online discount applies when an afternoon booking is made alongside a GTT reservation.

Also on offer, kept deliberately outside the core financial model as pure upside: a small post-test cafe counter (water, tea, snacks, A$3–12) and light retail (CGM sensors, low-GI recipe books, take-home nail polish, A$18–105).

A REPRESENTATIVE OPERATING DAY

Monday to Saturday, the same shape.

07:00 — Morning opens

2 phlebotomists staff 2 collection rooms.
8 treatment staff (4 massage/beauty, 2 nail, 2 hair) run the 9 synchronised client pairs through to the last departure around 12:33pm.

13:00 — Afternoon opens

A smaller, on-demand PM roster (1 of each treatment role, scaling to 2–3 on genuinely busy afternoons) runs standalone bookings through to 18:00. The same staff cover reception during gaps between their own appointments — no separate front-desk hire for the afternoon.

SUNDAY

Closed.

SATURDAY

Runs the same morning GTT volume as a weekday — not a reduced Saturday schedule.

WHO THE MONEY PAYS

Every role, and what it costs to fill it.

ROLE	COMMITTED HEADCOUNT	HOURS	WAGE RATE
Venue Manager	1 · new hire, not yet in place	07:00–15:00, Mon–Sat	A$40.00/hr
Phlebotomist (×2 chairs)	2	07:00–13:00, Mon–Sat	A$34.38/hr midpoint
Massage + Beauty (dual-qualified)	4 simultaneous	07:00–13:00, Mon–Sat	A$37.50/hr
Nail Technician	2 simultaneous	07:00–13:00, Mon–Sat	A$36.81/hr
Hairdresser	2 simultaneous	07:00–13:00, Mon–Sat	A$36.81/hr
PM Massage, Beauty, Nail & Hair (each)	1 each, scaling to 2–3 on verified peak afternoons	13:00–18:00, hours-based	same rates as AM

~11 committed core roles in total (8 AM treatment staff + 2 phlebotomists + 1 Venue Manager), plus on-demand PM casuals. Award rates researched against two independent payroll calculators; one earlier misclassification (Venue Manager) was found and corrected.

MODELED

TOTAL PAYROLL, ALL ROLES

A$96,256.18/month

Includes 12% superannuation and workers compensation for every role above. A full per-role dollar split isn't currently republished following an August staffing change (see note below) — this total is the current, correct figure either way.

TWO THINGS WORTH KNOWING

- PM Reception is not a separate paid role — PM treatment staff cover check-in and payment during natural gaps in their own bookings, a deliberate decision that removed one role's cost entirely.
- Superannuation (12%) is confirmed for FY2026–27. The exact workers-compensation premium for this venture's classification is still an estimate, not a quote. PLACEHOLDER

THE ONE DEPENDENCY EVERYTHING ELSE WAITS ON

Four candidates. No signed agreement yet.

GTT Center Perth doesn't process the test itself — every model depends on an external, accredited pathology partner to transport and process samples. Here is exactly where each of the four live conversations stands, as of today.

PRIMARY

WDP

In discussion

DISCUSSED	Full collection-room spec, GTT's 18/day model, courier feasibility, start-time guidance, no GP-on-site requirement
CONFIRMED	Courier collection conditionally viable; no GP needed on site; the 10:30am start-time guidance
OPEN	Commercial/rental figure; who employs the phlebotomist; waste disposal
NEXT	Awaiting a substantive reply to Anthony's 8 Sep follow-up — the most recent reply from WDP read as closing-sounding

SECONDARY — GENUINELY PROGRESSING

PathWest

In discussion

DISCUSSED	Venue concept, expected volume, courier feasibility for the required tube type, consumables supply
CONFIRMED	Can accommodate courier pickups; will supply tubes and biohazard bags at no cost; does not supply the glucose drink
OPEN	Cost, and what shape any arrangement would take
NEXT	Awaiting cost and next-step answers — Anthony has chosen not to progress this further until WDP replies

CONTINGENCY

Clinipath

Awaiting response

DISCUSSED	An initial enquiry, a follow-up nudge, and a third contact to three addresses that finally laid out the actual operating model
RESPONDED?	No reply from any address, after three attempts
NEXT	Awaiting any reply. Contingency only — comes into play if WDP and PathWest both fall through or price poorly

FOURTH CANDIDATE

Australian Clinical Labs

Awaiting response

DISCUSSED	A first-contact email presenting two possible operating shapes — GTT self-collects, or ACL supplies and runs collection end-to-end
RESPONDED?	No reply yet
NEXT	No follow-up planned yet — the standing pattern here is to wait 3–4 weeks of silence before chasing

HOW THE VENUE EARNS, AT THE 18-CLIENT TARGET

Two income streams, added together.

Morning — GTT clients

Clients/day × price/visit × operating days/month

18 × A$250 × ~26.3 days

A$118,485/month

CALCULATED

Afternoon — wellness salon

Treatment sessions/day × blended average transaction × operating days

16 sessions × A$117 × operating days

A$36,226/month

MODELED, NO LIVE BOOKING DATA YET

COMBINED

Total A$154,710.69/month

AM — A$118,485 (77%)

PM 23%

Honest caveat, not buried: the afternoon figure treats every treatment session as a separate paying visit. A dedicated review found that the two PM packages actually use two staff sessions per client transaction, which means the true PM figure could be anywhere from unchanged to roughly 28.6% lower — the exact number depends on a staffing decision (running package treatments side-by-side vs one after another) Anthony hasn't made yet. Nothing else in this document depends on that decision; the morning figure, which carries the business, is unaffected.

WHERE THE MONEY GOES

Wages are almost the whole cost base.

PAYROLL — A$96,256.18/MONTH

Every role on page 11, fully loaded with 12% superannuation and workers compensation. See the staffing page for the full role list.

NON-WAGE OVERHEAD — A$14,288.34/MONTH

Rent	A$8,000.00
Marketing	A$1,500.00
Consumables	A$800.00
Insurance	A$708.34
Utilities	A$650.00
Cleaning	A$600.00
Accounting	A$500.00
Contingency	A$500.00
GTT supplies	A$400.00
Laundry	A$350.00
Software	A$280.00

THE NUMBER THAT ACTUALLY MATTERS

How many mornings clients does this venue need?

Fixed monthly cost is about A$110,545, whatever the booking volume — the staff are rostered either way. The venue clears that cost at just 11.29 GTT clients a day, which is 63% of the 18-client target. Everything above that line is margin.

WHAT HAPPENS AS BOOKINGS GROW

The margin of safety above break-even.

Staffing is held fixed at the 18-client design in every column below — this shows what booking volume does to the result, not what cutting staff would do.

The 22.5/day column is a pure sensitivity extrapolation, shown for scale only — the solver-verified physical ceiling at current staffing is 18 clients/day.

THE SAME RESULT, EVERY TIMEFRAME

At the 18-client target.

WEEKLY ~A$10,200	MONTHLY A$44,166	QUARTERLY A$132,499
HALF-YEARLY A$264,997	ANNUALISED A$529,994	ILLUSTRATIVE DAILY ~A$2,007

One precise term worth using correctly with Imara: every figure above is an Operating Result — revenue minus running costs. It does not yet subtract depreciation on the fit-out, income tax, loan interest, or a return on the start-up capital itself, because none of those are locked in yet. It's the right number for "does the day-to-day business work," not yet the final personal bottom line.

WHAT IT TAKES TO OPEN THE DOORS

A range, honestly — not a false-precision number.

Equipment, furniture, fixtures	A$61,190 – 140,430
Fit-out / construction	A$191,200 – 298,750
Working capital & pre-launch	A$105,000 – 138,000
Adopted total range	A$292,335 – 594,900

● A newer planning figure of A$251,198 has been approved in principle by Anthony, pending final venue and supplier confirmation — shown as a point, not a replacement for the range above.

PLACEHOLDER, RANGE NOT YET CLOSED

CASH FLOW THROUGH THE RAMP

A working-capital reserve of A$85,000–110,000 is sized to carry the venue through its slowest months. The current model shows cash bottoming out at –A$76,533 in Month 2, turning cumulatively positive from Month 6, and reaching an estimated +A$598,233 by Month 24.

NOT A FIRST IDEA — A DEVELOPED ONE

Twelve areas, each worked through properly.

Customer experience

Full journey mapped across two independent design passes; the departure-gift idea was tested and dropped.

GTT clinical workflow

Minute-by-minute schedule solver-verified for zero clashes at 18/day — the same version shared with WDP.

Pathology relationships

All four genuine WA candidates identified and contacted; every reply tracked message by message.

Staffing

Headcount cross-checked by two independent calculation methods at the committed volume.

Wages

Award rates checked against two independent payroll calculators; one misclassification found and corrected.

Pricing

Morning packages locked; afternoon packages benchmarked against real comparable Perth salon bundles.

Venue requirements

One authoritative venue-program table, reconciled against several earlier fit-out drafts.

Capacity

Three successive capacity models — 10, then 12, then 18 clients/day — each independently verified before adoption.

Financial modelling

A fully deterministic model, corrected through eight rounds so far, each disclosed rather than quietly overwritten.

Branding

A complete brand and experience direction, plus a locked colour palette, built to work under either candidate name.

Legal & regulatory

Collection-centre standards cross-checked against all four pathology candidates' own accreditation requirements.

Market & risk

Perth demand estimated from real ABS birth data; a standing risk register tracked throughout, nothing quietly dropped.

BEING STRAIGHT ABOUT BOTH COLUMNS

What's decided, and what genuinely isn't.

Decided

- 18 clients/day, morning model — settled, not a live question
- Morning packages: A$250 and A$300 only
- Wellness staff and phlebotomists are employed, not subtenants
- PM reception folded into existing PM staff — no dedicated hire
- Two separate blood-collection rooms, for client privacy
- Massage stations are table/bed format, not chairs
- The departure "leaving box" gift concept — rejected
- Retail is third-party resale, not a branded product line
- Brand colour palette — founder-locked
- Typography and naming territory (Fraunces/DM Sans, wordmark-led) — set

Still open

- ? Final brand name — SOLENA leads, not yet legally cleared
- ? Final pathology partner — none of the four has signed
- ? Who employs the phlebotomist — in-house vs partner-supplied
- ? Final venue site — not yet secured
- ? Entity structure — a live, three-way accountant conversation
- ? PM package pricing — direction set, exact prices not signed off
- ? Start-up capital — a genuine range, not a single number
- ? PM revenue methodology — a staffing decision still to be made
- ? Final staffing pool size — full relief cover vs the lower bound
- ? Workers-compensation premium — coverage confirmed, rate not quoted

Where we are now.

The vision

A place every expecting mother in Perth would genuinely want to spend her two hours in — and want to come back to afterward.

The business

A morning that clears its costs at 11 clients and carries real margin at 18, sitting on top of an afternoon salon that fills the same rooms twice.

What we should decide together:

- ? Whether to commit to SOLENA once it clears a trademark check, or hold the door open a little longer
- ? How hard to push WDP this month versus giving PathWest room to become the lead option
- ? The start-up capital range, and how comfortable we are funding toward the top of it
- ? When to sit down with the accountant on entity structure, before either a partner or a site is locked in
